

SHOE MERCHANT'S FUNERAL SERVICES TO BE HELD TODAY

Strasburger to Be Buried In Hebrew Congregation Cemetery.

Funeral services for Joseph Strasburger, proprietor of the Family Shoe Store, and for more than thirty years connected with civic and charitable organizations, who died at Atlantic City Sunday morning, will be held in the Kenesaw apartment at 10:30 this morning. Interment will be made in the Washington Hebrew Congregation Cemetery in Anacostia, D. C.

Strasburger, who was born in Baltimore in 1854 and was graduated from the Spencerian Business College of Washington in 1871, opened a shoe store with his brother at 304-308 Seventh street northwest on his graduation from college.

In 1882 it was moved to 310 Seventh street, its present location, and became known as the Family Shoe Store.

He is survived by his wife, Florence E. Strasburger, and his sister, Mrs. M. S. Hirsch.

Among the offices in organizations which he held were past president of the Washington Board of Commerce, past president of the Board of Trade, City Club, Congressional Country Club, Association of Oldest Inhabitants, Board of Hebrew Charities, life member of the Children's Hospital, past director of the National Shoe Workers' Association, president of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association.

Traffic Violators Forfeit Collateral

Out of 106 Docketed, Only
Handful Appear in Court For Trial.

Out of the 106 traffic law violators who were supposed to appear in Traffic Court yesterday, only a mere handful responded, the rest forfeiting collateral totaling $500.

It took three witnesses to prove to Henry Allen, colored, that he was driving his machine when it did some fancy antics on Pennsylvania avenue southeast several days ago.

"I was intoxicated all right," he said, "but I know I wasn't driving my car."

Judge McMahon, however, took the word of the sober witnesses. He fined Henry $40.

Charles B. Hunter, proprietor of a local sightseeing company, charged a party of three $1.50 for a relatively short haul. It cost him $5.30, $4 for hocking with improper licenses and 80 cents that he was requested by Judge McMahon to refund to his fares.

Crossing a street intersection at the rate of twenty-eight miles per hour, when he should have eased by at twelve, set Charles Fasolone back $15, and the same offense cost Reginald Scott $5.

The case of Mrs. L. E. Loranger, of Wardman Park Hotel, who was shot at by Maryland motorcycle policemen after having driven through Bethesda, Md., at the alleged speed of fifty miles an hour, will be tried in Traffic Court today.

Among the offices in organizations which he held were past president of the Washington Board of Commerce, past president of the Board of Trade, City Club, Congressional Country Club, Association of Oldest Inhabitants, Board of Hebrew Charities, life member of the Children's Hospital, past director of the National Shoe Workers' Association, president of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association.
